

Pepper AND Frannie

Activity Guide

Pepper is practical and prepared. Frannie is fancy and free. Their differences only make their friendship stronger. When Pepper is unsure she has what it takes to skateboard, Frannie becomes both teacher and cheerleader. In the end, Pepper learns that she can truly accomplish anything as long as she has determination and a friend to support her through the ups and downs.

Author-illustrator Catherine Lazar Odell's energetic art brings Pepper and Frannie's mismatched friendship to life. Sweet and lively, this empowering tale showcases the power of friendship and the emotions that accompany trying something new.

Pepper & Frannie encourages readers to take chances and try new things. This rabbit duo—and these activities—will get readers thinking about individuality, self-confidence, and the importance of friendship.

Activities

Skateboard Scurry

Frannie's laid-back nature serves her well as a skateboarder, but it also means she's often running late! When Frannie misses the bus, Pepper's preparation provides a back-up plan. Complete the maze to help Pepper and Frannie get to the skateboarding festival on time.

Pepper OR Frannie?

Pepper always has a plan, and Frannie goes with the flow, but together they make a great team! Ask the children to name some of the personality traits unique to each bunny, and then to consider how Pepper and Frannie use their differences to support each other. Next, have the kids use the word bank to fill in the blanks with adjectives that describe Pepper and Frannie.

If You Can Do This . . . You Can Do Anything!

When Pepper learns to skateboard, she realizes that, if she can do this, she can do anything! Encourage the kids to think of a skill they want to learn or a goal they want to accomplish. Then have them draw themselves doing it.
